Keen to enjoy a holiday break as a family, among friends or as a group? Here's the winning formula for a great holiday this summer! Just imagine an apartment or large house, which will serve as your pleasant and functional "base camp" in a location bringing you a welcome change of scenery alongside a waterway or lake, perched on a mountainside or just a stone's throw from a town or large forest. From here, every member of the group will find something of interest to him or her and can plan each day with a sporting, relaxing, cultural, culinary or festive theme. Whether you are staying in a gîte or a holiday village, you can put together a varied holiday programme according to your age, tastes, lifestyle and budget.

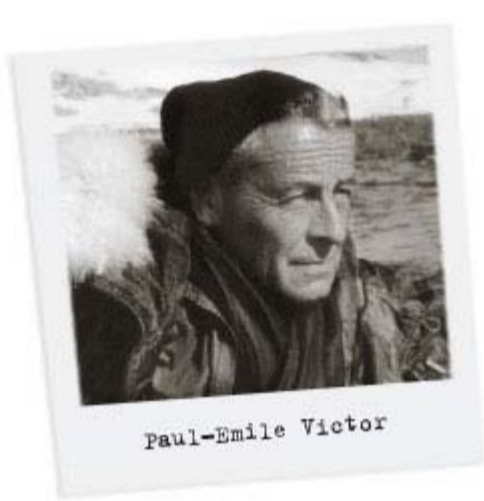

ADVENTURE IN THE VERY HEART OF THE JURA

Paul-Emile Victor was born in Geneva, but it was on the French side of the Jura mountain range that this future polar explorer spent his childhood and his youth back in the 1920's.

Paul-Emile's passion and daring gave rise to the amazing polar adventure with which we are today so familiar. In 1995, the explorer passed away in Polynesia. However, it is in the Jura, and more precisely in Prémanon, that his oldest son Jean-Christophe Victor has chosen to assemble a collection of souvenirs from his father's expeditions, and invites visitors to discover them at the PEV polar centre, which brings us a thrilling taste of this Arctic saga.

PÂQUERETTE!

This is the amusing little mascot of the Franche-Comté Regional Tourism Board. An attractive little russet and white cow (a Montbéliarde of course), which is there to guide our young visitors around the site www.franche-comte.org/enfant.

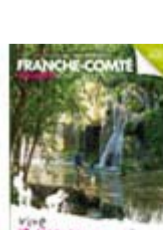

A clever quality label and website specially designed for children, enabling each family or group to plan the perfect stay!
